“After visiting these places, you can easily understand how that within a few years Hitler will emerge from the hatred that surrounds him now as one of the most significant figures who ever lived.”

– John F. Kennedy

Adolph Hitler was raised in a middle class family, and during the early years of his life his family even went through a difficult period of starvation. After being a soldier in world war I, on January 30th 1933, he found himself head of the German government, fulfilling the dream of every poor and middle class person who ever sought to make it big.

We are all familiar with the story of Hitler that the United States would like you to believe. Hitler has been made out to be one of the most “evil” people to have ever lived, slaughtering millions of innocent jews. This same story has been echoed throughout Hollywood for decades, and by now it’s safe to say billions of dollars have been spent to convince you of this black and white, good vs evil perspective about the Nazi regime. What if it isn’t entirely accurate?

After investigating the work of others who have documented history in an unbiased fashion, as well as those who have interviewed people who worked and lived alongside Hitler, there is strong evidence to suggest that what we’ve been told is extremely inaccurate. A completely new examination of Hitler and Nazi Germany during World War II is required, and from this examination a different story is sure to emerge.

Here are 12 things you were not told about Adolph Hitler and Nazi Germany:

1. Hitler Broke Free from the International Banking Cartels

When Hitler's period as Chancellor of Germany began, the German people had no work, no money and were starving. A wheelbarrow full of 100 billion-mark banknotes could not buy a loaf of bread at the time, and many Germans were living in shacks after countless homes and farms had been seized by Rothschild/Rockefeller-controlled banks.

In his 1967 book The Magic of Money, Hitler's Reichsbank President, Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, let out the big secret:

"The mark's dramatic devaluation began soon after the Reichsbank was "privatized," or delivered to private investors."

In other words, responsible for the post-war hyperinflation was not the German government, but rather the privately owned central bank in Germany, and its monopoly it had over the creation of money. Germany's economy was crashed and devastated by bankers... that is, until Hitler arrived.

After Hitler was elected, refusing to play ball with the Rockefeller-Rothschild rules, one of the first things he did was fix the corrupt, debt-based financial system. By completely thwarting the international banking cartels, the Nazi government issued its own currency known as Reich Marks, which were debt free and uncontrollable by international financial interests.

Debt Free Finance = Freedom

If America nationalized their currency as Hitler did for Germany, they would effectively sever all ties with international bankers, the manipulation of their government and economy would cease, and they would live debt-free. Just as Hitler issued debt-free currency for Germany, Abraham Lincoln setup an interest free banking system in the United States when he was President, and he was murdered for it. Former US president Andrew Jackson issued interest-free currency, and two shots were fired at his head in an assassination attempt, but the shots misfired and he survived. John F. Kennedy issued interest-free currency during his presidency and we all know how he met his untimely demise.

After Germany's public banking system was installed, world Jewry responded by declaring war on Germany, including a global boycott of German goods. Within two years, the German economy was flourishing with its new-found stable, and inflation-free currency.

2. Hitler Created a Thriving Economy with No Unemployment

After setting up a public banking system, Hitler began his reign by constructing new roads, bridges, dams, canals, port facilities, and much needed repair of public and private buildings.

Everything was done with public money that owed no interest to the International "Banksters". As Hitler said, "For every Mark issued, we required the equivalent of a Mark's worth of work done, or goods produced."

Next, the NAZI government encouraged women to be homemakers, and all the work being done to repair and improve the country's infrastructure and transportation created jobs for men. The unemployment problem had been solved within only two years, and Germany was back on its feet.

It's often been claimed, that Hitler's success in reviving his nation's economy was based largely on government spending for rearmament. This is a myth. As the renowned British historian A. J. P. Taylor noted: "Germany's economic recovery, which was complete by 1936, did not rest on rearmament; it was caused mainly by lavish expenditure on public works, particularly on motor roads, and this public spending stimulated private spending also, as [British economist John Maynard] Keynes had said it would. ...while nearly everyone else in Europe expected a great war, Hitler was the one man who neither expected nor planned for it."

– A. J. P. Taylor, From Sarajevo to Potsdam (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1975), p. 140.

3. Hitler Emphasized Respect for Women, Children and Strong Family Values

During the economic hardship just before Hitler was elected, Germany was seeing a declining rate of birth. In 1933, Hitler passed a law that enabled married couples to obtain interest free loans minimum 1000 Reich Marks (equal to 9 months salary) to set up homes and start families.

For each child birthed, the couple was allowed to keep 250 marks and did not have to repay it. This system pioneered by the Nazi government exists today in Switzerland. In the eyes of Nazis, women were viewed as the preservers of the tribe, the guardians of future generations, and the priestesses of domestic virtue.

Recognizing that families are the primary unit around which a functioning society is built, Hitler emphasized the principle of maintaining a strong bond among family members. Admired for his high regard for mother's, families were inspired and strengthened under the leadership of Hitler.

Poor families were helped by using financial incentives, and family allowances, marriage loans and child subsidies were provided equally to each and every segment of society.

4. Nazi Preservation of Environment and Animals

Under the Nazi regime, mishandling an animal was considered a heinous crime, and if somebody was discovered mistreating an animal, they were sent to concentration camps. As someone with great admiration for animals, Hitler showed great concern for animals native to Germany, and passed laws that ensured their safety and well-being.

In 1934, Hitler passed a law called Das Reichsjagdgesetz (the Reich Hunting Law), which regulated how many animals could be killed per year, and to establish proper 'hunting seasons'. This law has now been adopted by most western countries.

Animal conservation was included in Primary, Secondary and College levels, and in 1935, the Reichsnaturschutzgesetz (Reich Nature Protection Act) was passed, which placed several native species on a protection list including the wolf and Eurasian lynx. It is likely that this law saved some native forest-inhabiting species from going extinct.

The Nazi's were also the first to create environmental protection laws in history. The German Imperial Conservation law of 1935 was passed, which protected "remaining portions of landscape in free nature whose preservation on account of rarity, beauty, distinctiveness or on account of scientific, ethnic, forest, or hunting significance lies in the general interest."

"[It is] useful to know the laws of nature – for that enables us to obey them. To act otherwise would be to rise in revolt against heaven."
– Adolf Hitler

Hitler was a well-known lover of animals.

5. Hitler Banned Experimentation on Animals (Vivisection)

Nazi Germany was the first country in the world to ban vivisection, or any experimentation on live animals. With its great concern for animal conservation, and human treatment, a complete ban of vivisection was enacted in April 1933.

The Prime Minister of Prussia Hermann Goring has said:

"An absolute and permanent ban on vivisection is not only a necessary law to protect animals and to show sympathy with their pain, but it is also a law for humanity itself.... I have therefore announced the immediate prohibition of vivisection and have made the practice a punishable offense in Prussia. Until such time as punishment is pronounced the culprit shall be lodged in a concentration camp."

This German cartoon depicts animals that were saved from vivisection saluting Hermann Goring. The sign in the window reads "Vivisection Forbidden".

6. Hitler Funded Research into "Free Energy" Technologies

Hitler was well aware that in order to truly escape the stronghold of economic manipulation by the international banking cartel he would need to find a way to eliminate Germany's dependence on oil. An inexhaustible source of energy that was not monopolized by the private money cartels was required for true sovereignty, and this is what Hitler sought.

This pursuit led Germany to develop what has been called The Nazi Bell, which is described by author Joseph P. Farrell as "a hyper-dimensional physics device being researched under the auspices of the SS departments Entwicklungstelle-IV, Forschung, Entwicklung, und Patente, and SS General Hans Kammler's super-secret weapons black projects think-tank, the Kammlerstab."

According to Farrell, "the mission brief of the Entwicklungstelle IV was to develop free energy and to make Germany independent of foreign oil."

The Nazi Bell was designed, in Farrell's estimation, for a threefold purpose:

1. Energy Independence
2. Advanced Propulsion Technology
3. A Weapon of Tremendous Power

In his book Babylon's Banksters, Joseph P. Farrell points to evidence that after the War, the United States made every effort to reconstruct the personnel team that worked on the Nazi Bell, so that they could develop the technology for themselves and restore the balance of power between "Nazi International" and "Anglo-American" elite factions.

7. German Workers Were Well-Treated

With the goal of enhancing the standard of living for all German citizens equally, Adolph Hitler stimulated the spirit of integrity, comradeship and happiness, by funding numerous worker's welfare programs including:

- Highly Subsidized International vacation trips.
- 134,000 theater and concert events for 32 million people (Between 1933-1938). 2 million people went on cruises, and 11 million went on theater trips.
- Every citizen was given a radio.
- A 5 day work week for all citizens.
- Free Public Health.

- Hitler's government banned Trade Unions, and it was mandatory that all workers had to join the German labor Front trade union. Strikes were banned, and people who refused to work were imprisoned.
- Every large factory had to provide rest areas, cafeterias, dressing rooms, even playing fields and swimming pools for its workers.

During the Third Reich, German workers were better treated than at any time before, or since.

8. Organized Industrial Production & Farming

As opposed to the current American economy, where production is driven by the pursuit of maximum profit, Hitler initiated a policy of self-sufficiency, where the goal was to produce only what is required by Germans. The goal of the Nazi government was to produce for its country everything the German people needed without having to rely on imports to meet the needs of its citizens.

Along with the calculated production of material goods, new policies were introduced so that the aim of farming was to produce what German's needed, not what was most profitable. The government subsidized the farmers for loss of profit and farmers were given guarantees that all of what was grown would be purchased.

9. Hitler Eliminated Crime and Improved Health of Germans

By giving social misfits and criminals jobs, Adolph Hitler was able to reduce the crime rate in Germany. In his 1976 book The Twelve-Year Reich, author R. Grunberger stated that there were significant drops in the rates of murder, robbery, theft, embezzlement and petty larceny during the Hitler years.

Many foreigners were impressed by the improved outlook and health of Germans, including Sir Arnold Wilson, a British M.P. who visited Germany seven times after Hitler came to power.

"Infant mortality has been greatly reduced and is considerably inferior to that in Great Britain," wrote Wilson. "Tuberculosis and other diseases have noticeably diminished. The criminal courts have never had so little to do and the prisons have never had so few occupants. It is a pleasure to observe the physical aptitude of the German youth. Even the poorest persons are better clothed than was formerly the case, and their cheerful faces testify to the psychological improvement that has been wrought within them."

10. No Citizen Will Starve or Freeze

A prime philosophy of Germany at the time was that all citizens should share the same standard of living. With this in mind, Nazi Germany boasted one of the largest public welfare programs in history with the slogan "None shall starve nor freeze". Every year, high-ranking Nazi's and citizens would take to the streets to collect charity for the unfortunate, which generated a feeling of comradeship toward those in need.

They even went to the extent of publishing names of those who didn't give charity in the paper as a punishment or reminder of their neglect. According to Mark Weber of the Institute for Historical Review,

"On one occasion, a civil servant was prosecuted for failure to donate, and his argument that it was voluntary was dismissed on the grounds it was an extreme view of liberty, to neglect all duties not actually prescribed by law, and therefore an abuse of liberty."

11. The Nazi Anti-Tobacco Mission

Nazi doctors were the first to write a major scientific paper linking smoking to lung cancer. Following this report, smoking was banned in restaurants and public transportation systems. Advertising of smoking and cigarettes was severely regulated by the Nazis, and tobacco tax was raised to deter people from smoking. In what was one of the most expensive and effective anti-tobacco movements in history, numerous German health organizations began educating the public that risks of miscarriage were heightened when pregnant women engaged in smoking.

Nazi Anti-Tobacco Ad: "He does not devour it, it [the cigarette] devours him!"

In the year 1940, while annual cigarette consumption per capita in America was over 3,000, in Germany it was only 749.

- Hitler prohibited the sale of cigarettes to women.
- Hitler prohibited smoking for people under the age of 18.
- Hitler prohibited smoking for people in uniforms.
- Hitler prohibited smoking in public areas.
- Hitler was the first to place "warning" photos of cancerous lungs on cigarette boxes.

12. Nazi's Created a Culture that Cherished Music

Recognizing the importance weaving music into the fabric of a country rich in culture, Hitler founded the State Music Institute in 1933 after he came into power. Its purpose was to promote the timeless work of composers such as Beethoven, Mozart, Brahms, Wagner, among others. The Nazis ensured that every German citizen had a radio.

Youngsters were encouraged by the Nazi government to pursue music as a career in order to preserve the rich ancient German cultural heritage. Jazz, Swing, and sexually provocative music were all banned in Germany during the Hitler era.

50 Things That People Should Know About Adolf Hitler and National Socialism

LOVKAP

March 30, 2014

The Third Reich was doing the Lord's work on earth.

On January 30th 1933, Hitler became Chancellor of Germany. From an unknown soldier in WW1 in 1919, he became master of a nation which had long been governed by Aristocratic elites. He was from a middle class family and during his early life he knew what hunger was as he had been through starvation. He fulfilled a dream of every poor and of middle class person to make it big. Eighty years later, Let us now examine, Good things that Adolf Hitler /Nazis did in 5 years of their rule that we are never taught. But first, the lies being taught;

The National Socialism (NAZI) is one of the most evil political, economic and social systems in the history of the earth, made famous by their severe acts of cruelty and completely inhuman behavior etc etc etc.

Now the truth;

1. Breaking free of International Financiers;

When Hitler came to power, the national treasury was empty. Countless homes and farms were lost to private (Jewish controlled) Banks. The very first "invention" of the Third Reich was the breaking away from the international banking system, which made its money on debt finance; i.e., usury. (This act later probably caused WWII.) Nazi government thwarted the international banking cartels by issuing its own currency known as Reich Marks, free from manipulation by International Financiers. World Jewry responded by declaring a global boycott of German goods. See here. Within two years, Germany was back on its feet. It had a solid, stable currency, and no inflation.

The Third Reich was building for the future, not trying to destroy the past.

2. Thriving Economy, Removing Unemployment and Zero inflation.

When Hitler came to power a wheelbarrow full of 100 billion-mark banknotes could not buy a loaf of bread. Germans lived in hovels. They had no work, no money and were starving. Hitler began a national credit program by devising a plan of public works that included construction of new roads, bridges, Dams, canals, and port facilities and flood control, repair of public buildings and private residences. All these were paid for new State owned currency Reich Marks which was free from manipulation by International financiers. Hitler said, "For every mark issued, we required the equivalent of a mark's worth of work done, or goods produced." Women were encouraged to be homemakers thus creating jobs for unemployed men. Within two years, the unemployment problem had been solved, and Germany was back on its feet.

It's often been claimed, that Hitler's success in reviving his nation's economy was based largely on government spending for rearmament. This is a myth. As the renowned British historian A. J. P. Taylor noted: "Germany's economic recovery, which was complete by 1936, did not rest on rearmament; it was caused mainly by lavish expenditure on public works, particularly on motor roads, and this public spending stimulated private spending also, as [British economist John Maynard] Keynes had said it would. ...while nearly everyone else in Europe expected a great war, Hitler was the one man who neither expected nor planned for it." A. J. P. Taylor, From Sarajevo to Potsdam (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1975), p. 140.

3. Strong family values:

Maintaining the traditional family value was the principle doctrine of Nazis because they think that there was something special in children, in family and in the togetherness. Hitler was master in fixing the family to its true place. He was widely admired for his "high regard for mother" attitude. Poor families were helped by financial incentives. Family allowances, marriage loans and child subsidies were provided equally to each and every segment of society.

The family is the primary unit around which a functioning society is built.

4. Workers Welfare Programs:

In the best passage of Government largess, the Nazi regime fostered a purified liberal concept to enhance the living standard of German citizens across all segments of society. In order to stimulate the spirit of integrity, comradeship and happiness, Adolf Hitler fanned numerous programs and instituted strict rules for officials to carry them in eternal way.

- a) Highly Subsidized International vacation trips.
- b) Between 1933-1938 Strength through Joy (KDF) movement Organized 134,000 theater and concert events for 32 million people. 2 million people went on cruises and weekend trips and 11 million went on theater trips.
- c) Nazis ensured that every citizen had a Radio.
- d) 5 day week.
- e) Free Public Health.
- f) Trade Unions were banned. All workers had to join German labor Front. Strikes for higher wages were banned. People who refused to work were imprisoned. With fall in Inflation, purchasing power increased and wages actually fell.
- g) Large factories had to provide rest areas, cafeterias, dressing rooms, even playing fields and swimming pools
- h) They also banned "lock outs" for industries. No "reverse strikes" for them either.

German workers were better treated in the Third Reich than at any time before, or since.

5. Organized Industrial production

In 1933 Nazis put in place policy of AUTARKY. The aim was self-sufficiency. Industrial Production was controlled to produce not what is more profitable but to produce what is required by Germans. Emphasis was laid on to produce whatever Germany was hence before importing so as to make it self sufficient and debt free.

6. Organized Farming:

In 1933 new Farm Policy and Laws were introduced. In Nazi Farm law, farmers were organized into Reich Food estate and strictly controlled to produce not what is more profitable but what is more required by Germans. To compensate loss of profit, Farmers were assured 100% sales and given subsidies.

7. Elimination of crime:

Nazis adopted all means to keep away social misfits and criminal elements from his land and to bring them in mainstream by giving jobs. In order to encourage a peaceful lifestyle, Hitler banned general strikes on the city streets. By all accounts of historians, during the Nazi period, it was safe to walk on streets at night and people were far away from the apprehension of any kind of burglary, theft, arson, loot or murder. Offenders of peace were sent to concentration camps and were punished to extent.

8. None shall starve nor freeze to death;

The Winterhilfswerk (WHW, English: Winter Relief—literally "winter help work") was an annual drive by the National sozialistische Volkswohlfahrt (the National Socialist People's Welfare Organization). Nazi Germany had one of the largest public welfare programs in history, based on the philosophy that all Germans should share a standard of living. Its slogan was "None shall starve nor freeze". The Hitlerjugend and Bund Deutscher Mädel (boys' and girls' associations, respectively), High ranking Nazis and common citizens all took to the streets to collect charity for the unfortunate. This generated general good public feeling toward those in need and instilled spirit of comradeship. As part of the effort to place the community over the individual, totals were not reported for any individuals. In fact those who "forgot" to give had their names put in the paper to remind them of their neglect. On one occasion, a civil servant was prosecuted for failure to donate, and his argument that it was voluntary was dismissed on the grounds it was an extreme view of liberty, to neglect all duties not actually prescribed by law, and therefore an abuse of liberty.

A canister used for the Winter Relief Fund effort.

9. Anti-tobacco mission:

Nazi doctors, in line with their campaign for public health were the first to write a major scientific paper linking smoking with lung cancer. The Nazis banned smoking in restaurants and public transportation systems, citing public health, severely regulated the advertising of smoking and cigarettes, tobacco tax was raised to extent, medical lectures were organized for soldiers and health education was promoted for the restoration of better lifestyle. Nazis had one of the most expensive and effective anti-tobacco movements throughout history. Several health organizations in Nazi Germany even began claiming that smoking heightened the risks of miscarriages by pregnant women, now a commonly known fact. The statistics of annual cigarette consumption per capita as of 1940 had Germany at only 749, while Americans smoked over 3,000. He prohibited selling of cigarettes to women. He prohibited smoking to people in uniforms and persons under the age of 18. He also prohibited smoking in public areas. He first placed photos of lungs etc. on cigarette boxes.

10. Nazis started first checking of drunk drivers.

Alcohol consumption was discouraged though not banned.

“He does not devour it, it [the cigarette] devours him!”

11. Music promotion:

In an attempt to synchronize the culture on musical platform, Reichsmusikkammer (State Music Institute) was founded in 1933, just after the Nazi came into power. This institute was formulated to promote the legendary work of masterminded composers – Beethoven, Mozart, Brahms, Wagner etc. In order to preserve the rich cultural heritage of ancient Germany, the Nazi government promoted youngsters to adopt music as a career. It is a matter of fact that jazz, swing and sexually suggestive type of music were banned. Nazis ensured that every citizen had a Radio. Music was used extensively to inject a sense of pride in national heritage.

12. Respect for women and children;

German was seeing declining birth rate. Depression had added effect. What to say of feeding the children, families were finding it difficult to feed themselves. Birth rate had declined from more than 2 million children in 1900 to less than 1 million children in 1933, hence in August 1933 a law was passed that enabled married couple to obtain interest free loans minimum 1000 Reich Marks (equal to 9 months salary) to set up homes and start families. For each child produced they got to keep 250 marks and did not have to repay. Same system is still prevalent in Switzerland. The importance of women's role in a nation's success believed by the Nazi Party can be seen in what Hitler once said; “...what would become of the greater world if there were no one to tend and care for the smaller one? Nazi Party set out women's roles in life which became to be known as the three Ks, Kinder, Kirche and Küche (children, church, and kitchen). The Nazi viewed women as the preservers of the tribe, the guardians of future generation, and the priestesses of domestic virtue.

Music was used to encourage pride in national heritage.

13. Modern Day boy Scouts is based on Hitler Youth.

Boys were made to be physically and mentally fit from the youth to undertake public welfare. The nature of the Hitler Youth was; camping, outdoor activities, outdoor skills, and sport. This helped attract the youth to the Hitler Youth movement. With its summer camps the youth were able to escape from their normal lives and drudgery of school. Hitler preached for peace and equality. During the Hitler Youth rally, he states;-

“And we want that you, German boys and girls, to absorb everything that we wish for Germany. We want to be one people and through you, to become this people. We want a society with neither castes nor ranks and you must not allow these ideas to grow within you”.

14. To achieve classless society.

Nazis believed in equality for all women and men despite class, rank, race, or religion. Nazi regime insisted that all Germans take part in the May Day celebrations in the hope that this would help break down class hostility between workers and bourgeois and ultra rich. Films like Metropolis 'whose message of equality and fair treatment of anyone regardless of class, rank, gender, or race was emphasized to inculcate feeling of oneness. The film revolves around a capitalist controlled state, in which the majority of people are oppressed by an overbearing, rich minority. (remember OWS). The masses are forced into hard labor whereas the rich minority dwells in comfort and solace with little or no work to do except supervise the masses and frolic in their beautiful, ornate gardens. By capturing the true plight of the workers, through the filming of them walking to and from work like lost drones Nazis assuages the viewer to their cause. When Maria arrives and leads them to revolt, casting off the chains of oppression, the viewer is with them every step of the way, cheering them on. Similarly, Riefenstahl's Triumph des Willens embodies a similar spirit of oneness. These two films carried almost exact messages of rebellion against unjust oppression and of equality for all women and men despite class, rank, race, or religion.

“The phrases nationalism and socialism identify contemporary political currents of the age and did not require that new values be created. The lack of sense of community gave way to mutual burning hatred. Today the contrast between bourgeois and proletariat needs to be overcome, because the rise of any nation can only take place under common ideas. We need to close the gap and collect the forces again on a new platform.” — Adolf Hitler.

Hitler himself drew the original design for the Volkswagon.

15. Volkswagen:

It was 1934, when Hitler started on his dream project that every German family had a car which can carry at least two adults and three children with maximum speed of 100km/h. Hitler started working hand in hand with his top-notch officials and eventually launched his dream project, powered by an 25 horsepower engine. Literally meaning “People's Car”, this vehicle was presented as a car that every German citizen could afford to buy. It was based on the advice of Hitler to the designer, saying that it should resemble a beetle. The car was a huge success (it was made available to citizens of the Third Reich through a savings scheme at 990 Reich marks, about the price of a small motorcycle. It became the most popular vehicle in the world, known for reliability, stylish design and ease of use.

16. Affordable Homes with Gardens.

All Germans were made available affordable housing and environmental homes. Homes with gardens. No more “rabbit-warrens”.

17. Banning Vivisection;

Nazi Germany was the first country to ban vivisection in the world, enacting a total ban in April 1933. High ranking Nazis such as Hermann Goring, Heinrich Himmler and Adolf Hitler were very concerned about animal conservation, particularly pertaining as to the manner how animals were butchered. Most current laws in the World are derived from the laws put forth by the Nazi Party. Hermann Goring, who was established as the Prime Minister of Prussia, had this to say:

“An absolute and permanent ban on vivisection is not only a necessary law to protect animals and to show sympathy with their pain, but it is also a law for humanity itself.... I have therefore announced the immediate prohibition of vivisection and have made the practice a punishable offense in Prussia. Until such time as punishment is pronounced the culprit shall be lodged in a concentration camp.”

A cartoon showing animals saved from vivisection saluting Hermann Goring. The sign in the window says “Vivisection Forbidden”.

18. Preservation of nature and animals:

Leaders of Nazi Party were patrons of animal protection and that's why they adopted standardized parameters to ensure the security of animals in their regime. Mishandling an animal was considered as a heinous crime and if someone was discovered treating them like a pulse less property, then he/she was straightforwardly sent to concentration camps. Hitler, himself, was a great admirer of animals and was widely popular for his fascinating relationship with Blondi, his German Shepherd dog. When the Nazis came to power in 1933, their concerns not only laid with the people, but with the animals native to Germany. In 1934, a national hunting law was passed to regulate how many animals could be killed per year, and to establish proper 'hunting seasons'. These hunting laws have now been applied in most western countries.

This law was known as Das Reichsjagdgesetz, the Reich Hunting Law. The Reichstag also footed the bill for education on animal conservation at Primary, Secondary and College levels. Additionally, in 1935, another law was passed, the Reichsnaturschutzgesetz (Reich Nature Protection Act). This law placed several native species on a protection list including the wolf and Eurasian lynx. Additions were added later as to afforestation and the humane slaughter of living fish. Without this law it is likely some species would have completely disappeared from Germany's forests.

19. Nazis Created 1st ecologic laws for protecting water, earth and air.

GERMAN IMPERIAL CONSERVATION LAW OF 1935

Lands protected included:

“Remaining portions of landscape in free nature whose preservation on account of rarity, beauty, distinctiveness or on account of scientific, ethnic, forest, or hunting significance lies in the general interest.”

“National Socialism is politically applied biology.” — Hans Schemm, Founder and Head of the National Socialist Teachers Association

“[It is] useful to know the laws of nature – for that enables us to obey them. To act otherwise would be to rise in revolt against heaven.” — Adolf Hitler

Hitler was a well-known animal lover.

20. Autobahn / Freeways:

The idea of highway system was given by the Nazi and till the date they are admired for dispersing the network of roads to get you somewhere faster without a speed limit. Right after the Nazi takeover of 1933, Hitler bosomed the idea of interstate highway system without intersections with sophisticated engineering. This ambitious project was the best tool to eradicate unemployment and to cater mobility for the motion of motorized land forces. Using state-of-the-art technology, the highways were made without a single pothole with free resistance surfaces and gentle curves. Hitler was an enthusiastic supporter of the idea and pushed for the largest network of roads to be built across Germany. Established as the first freeway system in the world, the autobahn was a revolutionary feat of engineering that forever changed the way humans travel. Thousands of countries have emulated the system Hitler put in place, including America and Britain. It is single handedly the largest network of roadways in the world, with roads stretching all across the country, even to other countries such as Austria.

It was a goal of the Nazi party to try and bring the country into a sense of unity through the roadway system, and for the most part it was successful. Aircraft was tested on the long, smooth, straight sections of road and Grand Prix racing teams are known to practice on them.

The autobahn is still famous to this day as being the finest roads in the world.

21. Innovations in Film

Audio technology using magnetic tape was a Third Reich invention. Copying German tape recorders was how the famous American corporation Ampex got its start. Magnetic tape was also essential later for the video tape recorder. Allies hadn't a clue how the Axis was transmitting speeches and programs hours apart to different locations and having them sound "live." It was top of the list of technologies to capture as the war concluded.

Management systems for keeping massive and complex development programs on track was another "invention" transferred to the US, along with its scientists and project managers. These systems allowed the Germans to have developments underway in numerous categories and perform them remarkably well.

The Nazis were very interested in both film and music as essential cultural pillars. The first known magnetic tape recording was of a speech made by Hitler, and Joseph Goebbels pushed for more complicated methods of filming. The propaganda film 'Triumph of the Will', sequel to the former propaganda film 'Triumph of the Faith', is regarded as one of the most important pieces of cinematographic history. The director, Leini Riefenstahl (pictured below) used an astounding thirty film cameras and over one hundred technicians to produce the two hour film. Cranes and track-rail filming were used, techniques still used today to make a smooth 'traveling' effect.

The Third Reich movie industry was big enough to be a serious rival to Hollywood.

22. Advances in fashion and sportswear.

The Nazi style of uniform was as bold as their style of government. Thick-soled leather boots, slouch hats, cowhide coats, and peak hats were some of the staples in Nazi fashion, as well as muted color tones often in gray, tan and black. The SS Panzer military organization struck fear into the hearts of their adversaries, with black forage caps and leather coats which were later adopted by American rockers. Doc Martens closely resemble the jump boots that many Schutzstaffel officers wore. Look around at any rock, industrial or otherwise 'edgy' group and you see small traces of Nazi fashion sense. The American novelist Kurt Vonnegut once described the style as 'mildly theatrical'. Additionally, the founder of Adidas, Adolf Dassler (whose nickname was Adi), was a Nazi. He produced shoes for the Wehrmacht during the war, as well as providing American and Nazi athletes with his footwear during the Berlin Olympics. This created national acclaim when Jesse Owens won the sprinting event at the Berlin Olympics wearing Adolf Dassler's shoes. Adidas is now a multinational company, supplying athletes all over the world with a supply of footwear and sports accessories.

His brother, Rudolf Dassler, was the more ardent Nazi of the two brothers and went on to found another proficient sports company puma and Hugo Boss was a Nazi who, from 1934, was an official supplier of uniforms to the SA, SS, Hitler Youth, NSKK and other Party organizations.

23. Development of all Sports – Berlin Olympics 1936;

Morale of the people was high, there was euphoria among the population and a feeling of freedom after 15 years shackles of slavery under war Treaty for Versailles. A sense of general well being and good feeling after years of repression was felt by public which was reflected in performance of its people in all spheres of life. In 1936 Berlin Olympics; Germany topped the medal tally with 33 gold, 26 Silver, 30 Bronze medals. United States of America came a poor second with 24 gold, 20 silver and 12 Bronze. Habsburg empire (Hungary + Austria + Czechoslovakia ) won 17 gold, 13 silver and 8 Bronze.

24. Olympic torch relay ceremony was introduced by Nazis.

25. Jewish settlement in Palestine by "Havaara Agreement"

Hitler and Nazis are also known as Founder of Modern day Israel by being first to actually start Jewish settlement in Palestine (modern day Israel) to fulfill 2000 year old desire of Jews and Final solution of Jewish question of their own homeland, Nazis began active collaboration with Jews and Zionists for active Jewish control of Palestine.

Circular 54/1933 of the Reich Ministry of Finance, August 28, 1933;-

"To further the cause of Jewish emigration to Palestine through allocation of the necessary sums of money, without putting too much strain on the currency reserves of the Reich and simultaneously increasing German exports to Palestine, an agreement has been reached with the appropriate Jewish authorities. It is based on the following conditions:..."

The Agreement made it possible for millions of German and other European Jews to occupy and control Palestine Lands now known as Israel till England's declaration of war on Germany which prevented allocation of further resources for immigration and settlement. The Reich spent several million RM on Jewish occupation and settlement in Palestine. The total amount transferred from Germany to Palestine through the Ha'avara between August 1933 and the end of 1939 was 139.57 million German marks (now equivalent to more than $66 billion). W. Feilchenfeld, et al., Haavara-Transfer, p. 75.; "Haavara," Encyclopaedia Judaica, (1971), Vol. 7, p. 1013.

A Coin commemorating the German/Jewish collaboration had on one side the Swastika and on the other side the Jewish 'star of David' now seen on the Israel national flag also. The ships which carried Jews for occupation and control of Palestine bore their names in Hebrew and the Swastika flew from the mast.

26. Father of Modern V-2 Rocket:

V2 Rocket (the world's first known object to achieve sub-orbital spaceflight). Better known as the A-4, V-2 is credited for being the first non-human-piloted artifact as well as the world's first long range combat-ballistic missile. This rocket comprised a number of key technological innovations, still used in the space programs of the United States and the Soviet Union. Hitler named it "Vengeance Weapon 2" because it was conceptualized to wipe out a city-size target with its accumulate guidance and transmission system.

 Father of Modern Rocketry

The man who invented rockets as we know them today, Wernher Von Braun, was a member of the Nazi party and commissioned Schutzstaffel Officer. He aided both Germany and the United States in the use of rockets during and after WW2, and eventually became a naturalized U.S. Citizen. Although he pioneered many areas, including the installation of liquid-fueled rockets in aircraft and orbit to ground missiles, he is best known for his achievements in NASA. His best achievement there was undoubtedly the development of the Saturn V booster rocket, that helped man to finally touch the moon, in July 1969. Von Braun officially opened the gate to space travel through his innovative inventions.

27. Banning Nuclear and atomic weapons;

In 1938, two Germans scientists, Otto Hahn and Fritz Strassmann, working at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Berlin, discovered that when they bombarded uranium with neutrons they could split the uranium atoms' nuclei into two parts releasing energy and more neutrons (a process called fission.) Thus Nazi Scientists knew how to create energy-producing fission chain reactions as the neutrons from one split-atom plowed into surrounding atoms, splitting them also.

According to Skorzeny, the atomic Bomb was opposed by Hitler himself as early as in 1940 "for not converting this planet into a stellar object being consumed by Flames" After the sabotage action in Norway, "which had damaged the capacity of producing heavy water and also freighters transporting heavy waters were sunk", he discussed the topic with Hitler:

Hitler, who had read an article of Heisenberg, said:" The effects would be terrible.. All kind of life, not only human life but also life of animals and plants would be exterminated for hundreds of years within a radius of 40 Kilometers ..... No nation; no group of civilized humans beings could consciously bear such responsibility. From strikes and counter strikes the human species would exterminate itself"

Modern rocketry would not exist without the advances that the Third Reich made.

28. Development of Missile technology:

Ground-to-ground, air-to-air, air-to-ground, ground-to-air, ship-to-ship, etc., using wire guidance, TV guidance, IR guidance. Most of these missiles were not at the highest form of development, but their work launched and made a bundle of money later on for corporations like Boeing, Raytheon, Hughes Aircraft, North American Aviation (Rocketdyne Div.), etc. All of these companies had their German "Chief Scientist" heading up research and development operations.

29. Reunited all German speaking languages into Großdeutsches Reich;

Germany was cut in several pieces in Treaty of Versailles and its pieces gifted to other nations. Saar Rhineland, Austria, Sudetenland, slowly rejoined Germany under Plebiscite needless to say without firing a single shot. Danzig was last of such places. 98% population had voted against its forcible separation from Germany in 1919. Poland and England refused to allow Danzigers to choose their own destiny to rejoin 'home'. After the war, England gifted whole of Poland to communist Russia along with half of Europe as against small German corridor of Danzig desired under Plebiscite.

30. Hitler had spared the 338,000 British and French troops at Dunkirk in 1940 if not the result was the capture of the entire British Expeditionary Force.

31. Hitler refused to use chemical weapons against allies during D Day Landings.

Hitler had sparing the 338,000 British and French troops at Dunkirk in 1940.if not the result was the capture of the entire British Expeditionary Force. He was first to realize the Threat of Bolshevism and Stalinist Russia which was followed later by NATO but realization came after 72 million had died and Europe UK lay in ruins.

32. From Weak to Strongest Nation in just five years:

In just five years Germany became most powerful state in the World. On September 3, 1939 England and France declared World War 2 by attacking Germany. France was run over in 2 weeks, England ran to US for help. It took combined strength of 50+ nations including Russia US, UK, France, and China to defeat a country of size of Texas only because collectively they had far more resources than Germany. The ratio one Nazi Soldier to allied soldiers was 1:97.

Wernher Von Braun developed the booster rocket that enabled man to reach the moon.

33. Computer, invented by Konrad Zuse 1941.

34. After death of Fritz Todt he created black box for airplanes.

35. Jet plane in 1939 by Heinkel Flugzeugwerke.

36. Nazis Invented first effective automatic rifle, single person anti-tank weapons (precursors to RPGs). StG 44 Assault Rifle (considered by many historians to be the first modern assault rifle).

37. Stealth technology was invented by the Horten brothers during the Reich.

38. The Wankel engine, which is now referred to as the "rotary engine" was invented during the Third Reich. Mazda uses this engine extensively.

39. Development of IR technologies used in Night vision, Thermography, Hyperspectral imaging, Tracking, Communications, Spectroscopy, Meteorology, Climatology were mostly all developed during the Third Reich. They had “night vision” devices while the Allies were still wondering if such things were possible.

40. Modern sewer treatment facilities are all derived from Third Reich technology. They are generally seen with their settling ponds and huge skimmers.

41. It was the Third Reich that perfected television and conducted the first broadcasting While the Englishman, Farnsworth, gets credit for the invention of a very rudimentary television.

42. Application of geophones for seismic wave detection used for locating artillery.

Hitler did not see any work as demeaning and would not ask anyone to do something that he would not do himself.

43. The “rail gun” was another significant invention, which the US and SU copied. This weapon employs a series of ring magnets to propel a rail mounted projectile. The significant feature of this “gun” is that it can accelerate the projectile at a speed nearing infinity — at least in theory. Conventional explosives are limited by their individual, finite rates of expansion and hence constrained in how fast they can make a projectile move.

44. The Fischer-Tropsch process to produce synthetic fuels from coal, which fueled Germany’s armed forces throughout the war.

45. Third Reich scientists also performed extensive work in the area of occupational carcinogenesis. Physicians documented the health hazards of asbestos, and in 1943 Germany became the first nation to recognize lung cancer and mesothelioma caused by asbestos inhalation as compensable occupational illnesses.

46. Inflatable sex doll - Dr. Rudolf Chargeheimer, a psychiatrist appointed by Himmler to help develop the prototype, wrote that “the purpose and goal of the dolls is to relieve our soldiers. They have to fight and not to mingle with ‘foreign women.’”

47. The opiate drugs methadone (the heroin substitute) and pethidine (a powerful pain killer) were Nazi inventions.

48. Much of what we know about hypothermia (re-warming techniques and cold-water suits) comes, from Nazi experiments.

49. Microwave cooking (necessary for troops in Russia)

50. Nazis had invented the Nerve gasses Sarin and Tabun.

51. Magnificent Nazi architecture.

Hitler was a very versatile artist and did not just draw architecture.

Hitler, as a trained artist, was well-versed in architecture. Hitler felt that the key qualification for an effective public building was that it expressed the strength of its owner. Perhaps the most archetypical of Nazi buildings was the New Reich Chancellery in Berlin. The building housed administrative offices for senior officials of every branch of the Nazi regime. The Chancellery, displayed all the features that have since come to be associated with the Nazi architectural style. The Voss-strasse entrance, high columns and massive doors. There are no columns or statues, only rows of windows, evenly aligned. There is nothing exciting happening on this facade, no writhing sculptures or twisting baroque decorations. Instead, Speer’s design focuses on line. Nothing pushes against the lines and nothing curves.

In buildings not intended to be part of diplomatic life, they imitated traditional German dwellings. The Hermann Goering Youth Home and Speer’s West front headquarters both imitate this traditional style. The Tannenberg Memorial draws inspiration from the castles of the medieval Germany’s Hohenzollern era and combines it with the new Nazi aesthetic of clean lines and stark, blank facades. This style echoes the glory of German conquerors like Barbarossa, and reminds the Volk of their history of greatness.

To those who live in Washington DC, a lot would now seem familiar.

Conclusion;

To call itself developed, Western society in general, absorbed as much of the Nazi technology and social control mechanisms as we could lay our grubby hands on. We didn’t invent them, and we weren’t working on them at the same time. We took them from the Nazis wholesale. In all, 300,000 patents and copyrights were expropriated from Germany by the Allies after 1945 under Operation paperclip.

When the Jews returned to Jerusalem from Babylon (with a small remnant of the Real Israelites), about 536 B.C., they brought with them the teachings which became known as the (filthy/evil) Babylonian Talmud. "THIS WAS THE END OF HEBRAISM AND THE BEGINNING OF JUDAISM" ~ Rabbi Stephen Wise, one of the main Jewish leaders in the United States a few years ago.

(This is when the Jews stole/usurped the identity of the Real Israelites. The Jews have never been Israelites! The Jews are Edomites/Kenites and Kenites = sons/daughters of Cain !!! Hebraism & Judaism are not the same thing, they are totally opposite ideologies. Hebraism (The Law of Moses) is from the Good Creator, Yahweh, of the Holy Bible. Judaism (Communism) is from the evil, destructive Talmud 'god of this world', Lucifer/Satan, the Serpent of Genesis 3:14,15, and is evil to the core) !!!!!

"Strictly speaking it is INCORRECT to call an ancient Israelite a Jew or to call a contemporary [modern] Jew an Israelite or a Hebrew." ~ The Jewish Almanac, Compiled and Edited by Richard Siegel and Carl Rheins, New York: Bantam Books, 1980, pg.3

"The Holy Bible (Old & New Testaments) is NOT a Jewish book and it is not about the Jews and the Jews did not write either one of them, the Jews wrote the filthy Talmud which is the Jews' 'bible' !!! OUR Holy Bible is about us White Caucasian Real Israelites always having to fight off the Serpent's literal offspring, the Jews, for 6,000 years, ENOUGH IS ENOUGH" !!! ~ B C ~

~So very sad it is that the White-races of America and Britain allowed themselves to be subverted into self-genocide by the devious Jew through the Jew's commandeering every facet of our cultural-infrastructure. We solemnly pray that another likeness of altruistic St.Hitler shall rise-up from the decay wrought by the insidious infiltration of the mentally-depraved Jew. Accordingly, it must be recognized that the humane notion of separate nations for all races must be the goal of humanity, -if we are to ever preserve the diversity that our Creator so wondrously provided; -otherwise the Jew would have the superior Aryan-race lost to a world of bland sameness, -and with it would be lost the intellectual ability to lead humanity forth to achieve true aesthetic/scientific greatness, -not the vile sham quackery of VooDooJoo -elitism...

In the modern world, invading White cousin nations with armies to allow for expansion of your particular type of White genes makes less sense than simply breeding your own kind to the maximum and then letting your teeming masses simply walk across borders and absorb other nations and eventually win; simply by swamping such cousin nations with your particular type of White genes.

Imagine how things might have been different if Hitler had stayed within German borders and simply increased the German population to astronomical levels. In time, large parts of that excess population would have walked across national borders and started expanding their genes there.

Hitler was a victim of the European mindset that war was inevitable and glorious. He went on to become a victimizer by leading young Germans into a horrible war. He was not as evil by any means as Stalin, and arguably less evil than the British Empire. I accept that the German preemptive war with Russia saved half of Europe from Communism. And the German war with the British ended the British empire. We should all thank Hitler for both. America had within it a higher evolution of constitutional government and law that should have kept it out of the war, but it was betrayed into the war. If Hitler would have avoided war like the plague, and continued to build up his nation as this article demonstrates, his legacy would have been great.

Hitler was not evil. He was trying to save White people and help our evolution move forward. Politics was a means to that end.

In time there will be a rehabilitation of his image and what he was really about. The enemies of White people have been trying to keep that from happening for years, but they're starting to lose the battle. This article is a step in the right direction toward that rehabilitation.

Had the Germans won WWII—we Whites would not now be facing our possible extinction, and our White nations would not now be daily invaded by non-Whites who are causing bedroom genocide via miscegenation.

In addition, we would not now see Whites being murdered on the streets and in our homes by Blacks who then get slaps on the wrist for their crimes against us.

Hitler was the savior of the White race and I expect that more and more Whites will come to this conclusion the more they read the real story of what he and the Nazis were about.

Very good website and webpage at all!

But there are some few mistakes in your article.

1. Metropolis film was produced by 1927. Still – the ideas here named are right.
2. V2 – The V2 was the first rocket in space. – October 1942, but there were also first plans and drawings, to build a larger rocket, able to take humans to space. (Visit Urlaub \(pm\) for a link to Peenemuende, with many pictures and video material)
3. The Tannenberg Memorial – Idea as early as 1915, first start of building 1924, after a German wide competition of architecture, for this most important War Memorial, after the "Voelkerschlacht Denkmal Leipzig (opened 1913, to commemorate the battle with Napoleon 1813, in Germany).
Opened in 1927 by Paul von Hindenburg. The Memorial was based on a Germanic Defense Village, the cross in the middle symbolizing a sacrifice place, as usual by German tribes.
Often you will read, the Memorial was build after "Stonehenge" – 100% wrong!
The film "The Nibelungen" 1924, was using some of the ideas of the Tannenberg Memorial, regarding the architecture of the castle. Please see the website of the Tannenberg Memorial (Click on Hindenburg).

You CHards are so delusional how you rationalize this Jewish gibberish in order to make it look White.

You reveal that your true priority is this kike religion, and not racial loyalty.

If Esau was the kike, then are you saying Jacob was the Aryan?

Jacob is the one who deceived, not Esau. Jacob was the one who lied to his own father, not Esau. Jacob birthed Joseph who starved and enslaved the Egyptians like a typical Jew would, not Esau.

I don't care much for this kike dribble, but I'd say Jacob sounds more like the kike to me.

And on the Bible goes, full of this very underhanded kike spirit.

I suggest you try to understand what the Bible is all about. The white western man are the true descendants of the Israelites in the Bible. Jesus was NOT a jew. He was a white man, an israelite.

The Jews are edomites, the descendants of esau/edom. Esau forfeited his birthright by marrying into the satanic seedline of the canaanite race, later to become the jews. He lost his birthright because he refused to perpetuate his own white blood. How can God expect to keep a covenant with a people who mongrelizes themselves out of existence?

Jacob therefore got the birthright and he is the father of the israelites and the white western nations.

Plus there is zero evidence they put Jews into gas chambers or gassed any.

Most Jewish deaths in the work camps were caused by the "Allies" cutting off food and supplies to the camps by holocausting Germany with massive bombing.

The Germans were a civilized people, and they in fact treated all in the camps (including the Jews) at least 100 times better than the Jewish Communists treated the Russian people in their Jewish-Communist death camps. Those were the REAL death camps.

Jews who like to call any pro-White a "supremacist" are always projecting themselves on us. They are supremacists (read their scriptures!) so they call us "supremacists" if we make on squeak about possible survival. They holocausted the Russians, Dresden, and the Germans — so naturally they start saying "We were holocausted!"

In fact, the Jews did the first genocide of all recorded history! Whole peoples were exterminated by them. Since their religion urges them to genocide and enslave non-Jews, why would they NOT be masters of genocide — including the use of covert, incremental, and subversive means (like advocating for massive non-white immigration into White lands for decade after decade, etc.)?

Understand now people? Wake up!

In communism also, working class was favored, no beggars, excellent welfare programs, strong industrialization, free housing and medical care etc. State favored arts, sport etc. Minimum 4 weeks of vacations per year, reunification of states etc...In communism, crime was non-existent. We did not have murders (like we have today), civic criminal activity was non-existent. The only difference was religion. I agree about private property, but communism favored family big time. We did not have pro-homosexual laws, natality was ever increasing, low rate of divorces. Even today, in ex-communist and communist countries (China, Cuba) notion of family in MUCH stronger than in Germany or West. Those are the facts that are easy to verify (inform your self, it's free).

Two extremes are always complementary: day and night, Yin and Yang, man and women. One would not exist without other one.

So, please, can you clarify what you actually want it to say.

I think one of the ways we can go wrong is relying on google so much for our information. As I'm sure you know, it tailors what you see by what it "thinks" you want to see (based presumably on previous viewing choices), so the web pages it brings up for you will be different to those it brings up for me. This can lead one into the twilight zone pretty quickly, as you are largely under its direction.

In light of that, I think many DS readers might benefit from listening to the following Manly P. Hall lecture. I think we tend on the whole to be more grounded than the David Icke and Alex Jones crowds, but nevertheless significant involvement in matters that have been occulted can become burdensome.

"Even today, in ex-communist and communist countries (China, Cuba) notion of family in MUCH stronger than in Germany or West. Those are the facts that are easy to verify"

Thats why I wrote, dear Vida, that

"communism wanted to dismantle the family unit". I didnt say that communism actually dismantled it.

However, under communism, the rate of divorces increased, more children were in orphanages. romanian dictator Ceaucescu recruited members of the Securitate from orphans.

Also, the original communist doctrine was “free love”, propagated by Alexandra Kollontaj, for example. She viewed marriage and traditional families as legacies of the oppressive, property-rights-based, egoist past. Under Communism, both men and women would work for, and be supported by, society, not their families. Similarly, their children would be wards of, and reared basically by society.

“Kollontai admonished men and women to discard their nostalgia for traditional family life. “The worker-mother must learn not to differentiate between yours and mine; she must remember that there are only our children, the children of Russia’s communist workers.” However, she also praised maternal attachment: “Communist society will take upon itself all the duties involved in the education of the child, but the joys of parenthood will not be taken away from those who are capable of appreciating them”

Of course, communism couldn't enforce this ideology. But they tried.

“Two extremes are always complementary”

Like good and bad? Truth and lies? I dot think so.

You know, Reichenberg, we do idealise” traditional” family. Life of our grandmothers and great-grandmothers was not joyful. At young age, they were obliged to get married (often, without love), to reproduce as cows (7-8 kids was a norm), without any educations or right. Sons were glorified, daughters were regarded as a burden. Fathers worked hard, dying young, used and abused by life. Life expectancy was low. Change was inevitable, regardless of political system or country. That is way feminism was born, everywhere (in communism, socialism, capitalism etc). It is all part of evolution. I personally, would not love to return to that. It was not good. Today, situation is chaotic, but , i am convinced that this craziness is reaching its end, and that humanity will lessons we are bound to learn. Is all for the best.

Our discussion, Dear Vida, started from the subject of communism’s fight against the traditional family. And that was proven right, by the sources I brought up.

Yes I know that life was hard long ago, and communism -sometimes, someplaces- improved on the situation. But that doesn’t make communism “good”.

Comunism was rearing people to be slaves. that is the truth.

■ Vida

March 31, 2014 at 7:06 pm

I never said that communism was good. I am thankful to God that is over. But every, absolutely every political system has its strong and weak side. Strong side of communism was that oriented people toward each other. Community was developed , but individuality was strangled. In Capitalism, individuality is developed without regard to community. Faulte of NS is that was based purely on the race .In Germany, there are few hundred thousands of Lusatian Serbs. And Hitler did not find Serbs (Slaves) to be Aryan (although they are European, Christians, and White as Snow White). So what would happened with those people under NS ? So far, Humanity did not came-up with system that would be just to all. That is what I want it to say.

After the March coup and placing the minor Prince Petar II on the throne, the jew went to work on your people. Offering you 2 bogus resistance movements. One for the God fearing Christian people and one for the Godless bottom feeders of your people. Since 1945, you have been fed the same crap that the rest of the world has been served. Sadly, had your people not been fooled, maybe (most likely) the push on the USSR would have been successful. Case in point as far as propaganda is concerned. most Czechs believe the same rubbish yet Reinhard Heydrich was the FIRST person to put into law unemployment benefits for the Czech people ( mind you there was a war going on ) yet most people there think the same way. If they were all doomed to extermination, why give them benefits? Also, there were many Serbs that migrated to Scandinavia after the war that fled with the Germans. Was there a bias, probably at some level. BUT, the offer was given to an alliance and it was rejected thus causing the dislike.

They all came with arms in their hands, took Kosovo from us (Ottomans, Germans and today NATO), and killed our people. So, please, explain me, what is the difference between Ottomans and Germans. IT is same modus operandi. No difference at all ! Do you find just that Hitler conquer us and killed after we refused him ? He was a rapist of Serbia, and that is a fact. Germans bombed us ( in 41 and 99), Brits bombed us (1945, 99), Americans bombed us (99)....It is all same shit to me. And all that because they want to approach Russia. It is strange how Brits and Germans are united when is the time to steal Russian land. Just look at them now. Well, trust me, it was the same 60 years ago. History always repeat itself. If you believe that Kosovo is Serbia, how do you explain that Germans annexed it in 1941, same as Jews today ? I am telling you, Hardrada there is no differences between Empires. They are all EVIL.
I stumble on this site maybe 1-2 months ago. I liked it because it is the first english site that is pro-Russian. I also find that this site has excellent coverage, and i do enjoy it. I do not agree with everything ( I do not consider myself to be WN), but other than that, i find that people on this site do give resistance to current events. I support that with my hart and soul.
Also, this is first time that I have occasion to speak with SS supporters and to hear theirs side of story. It is interesting.
Also, i never go to the Jewish or commi site. Why would i do that. Communism is dead, same as this evil Judeo-Wester imperia is dying right in the front of our eyes.
Cheers !

That's all true, but you have to understand that Eastern European countries, and indeed the Soviet Union post Lenin, followed Stalinist Communism over the more traditional, international "Leninist" model.

Some tenants of Stalinism should very easily clear up why Eastern Europe is so much more traditional than the west:

1. Socialism in one country. IE, no big internationalist umbrella.
2. Nationalism and militarism. Take a look at East Germany. It does have a feel somewhat like National Socialist Germany. Why? Stalinism had elements of Socialism and Nationalism. Or, Nationalism and Socialism.
3. A stronger state. Whereas Marxist-Leninism put forth that the state would 'wither away.'

There are other differences too, but traditionalism was alive and well in Eastern Europe thanks to Stalinism. Even though Stalinism pretty much destroyed the natural aristocracy of those countries.

"NS is the same as Marxism". ——— WRONG! for the record and future readers:

Roughly, Marxist Socialism promotes the international union of workers and farmers against the middle and upper classes of all countries and so opposes the people of different social classes, while National Socialism promotes the union of all social classes within a nation, using a common blood and culture as a link, a hyphen between all the people of a same nation (except the eternal wandering leeches, of course). Marxist Socialism is a social engineering designed and promoted by a hostile foreign minority (no need to name it) who hated the local majorities and spread its ideology to destroy those majorities, while National Socialism was a social answer to the violence of wild Capitalism and Bolshevism, designed and promoted by men who sincerely and deeply loved their people and couldn't bear to see their beloved people be squeezed dry, butchered and destroyed by the aforementioned hostile minority. Marxist Socialism promotes a fake love and brotherhood only to better hide the deep hatred of its designers and promoters, while National Socialism promotes hatred against those who hurt the ones loved by its designer and promoters. The real motive of Marxist Socialism is hatred, while the real motive of National Socialism is love, the kind of love that may lead a father to violence toward the ones hurting his loved ones.

The socialism in National-Socialism is not based on the tired, worn-out, disproven, 19th century economic theories of the Jew Karl Marx, but rather on the idea that the welfare of the Folk (or Race) is the highest good. The goal is neither to promote anti-capitalist class warfare on one hand, nor to generate additional profits for the plutocrats on the other. The goal is to provide for the welfare and prosperity of the WHOLE FOLK, not just one specific segment of it. Whatever serves the Folk is good, what does not is discarded.

As for capitalism: the aspects of it that are harmful to the Folk are abolished, and those which are beneficial are harnessed by the NS state for the good of the Race.

Good article, but maybe some things not exactly as stated. Hitlers revolution was not an attempt to create a 'classless' society. Hitler wanted a true meritocracy, he wanted all the sectors of society to be valued equally. The working man would be honored next to the businessman, etc. This is the 'class collaboration' the various fascistic movements wanted, as contrasted to the class warfare of the Marxists, or the crude material one-up man-ship of the liberal capitalists.... Also that bit about the blow up dolls- really? No, its just a rumor or unsubstantiated tale. Also, I think the Volkswagen car never saw wide-scale production until after the war.

Nazi is an attack word of enemy agitators.

Western White Aryan Nations, you've been duped by the Edomites time and again. When will you ever learn?

The bible prophecy is clear. The edomites will not only be expelled from our white western countries. They will be totally exterminated.

"And the house of Jacob shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau for stubble, and they shall kindle in them, and devour them; and there shall not be any remaining of the house of Esau; for the LORD hath spoken it."

Why do you think they invented the holohoax myth? So that what is going to happen to them would seem the most unthinkable. All white western people must pray the Lords prayer. " Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done..."

Everyone must understand that Gods will is to exterminate these edomites and when all of Gods children (white people) also wants that to happen, it will happen. God will never let his children down but he also wants us to be 100 % dedicated to his holy cause.

Yahweh bless white Brothers and Sisters!

Very good article, main points finely covered. However there are some minor details I'd like to correct.

"When Hitler came to power a wheelbarrow full of 100 billion-mark banknotes could not buy a loaf of bread."

That was in 1923, ten years before "Hitler came to power". It was stopped with the introduction of the Rentenmark, in 1924. It was the achievement of Hjalmar Schacht, who later became Hitler's main banker until 1939.

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rentenmark>

In the public works programs, the role of the “bills of exchange”, ÖFFA-bills, MEFO-bills etc is of great importance.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Oeffa\_bills

It was basically a “credit ex nihilo”, money that was created solely for the magnificent purposes of public works and rearmament.

“The effects would be terrible.. All kind of life, not only human life but also life of animals and plants would be exterminated for hundreds of years within a radius of 40 Kilometers ..... No nation; no group of civilized humans beings could consciously bear such responsibility. From strikes and counter strikes the human species would exterminate itself”

I'm really curious about this quote. I have my doubts about its validity. First: how would Hitler know that the A-bomb would have a 40-km destruction-radius? I mean for that, you'd have to have some 50 megaton A-bomb.

What I know about this is, that Heisenberg himself believed that making an A-bomb would've been impossible, because for that you'd have to have a 47 cm-diameter uranium ball, for enough neutrons to develop. It was practically impossible at that time to assemble that much enriched uranium, so he dropped the idea. He only realised his mistake after the war.

Im not saying that Hitler didnt say it, Im saying that I'd like to see a source, from where this quote is taken. On the net there are only National Socialist blogs and forums dealing with it, but they dont provide a source (book, article) for it.

I personally think that in a World War, if you have the opportunity to use a bomb like this, use it. One bomb to Moscow, one to London. Rather this, than what happened after WW2: Worldwide infestation of cultural and 'literal' marxism.

The rest of the article, save for some typos (Dangiz instead of Danzig etc) seems correct.

There is a scholarly theory (forget where I first found it) that one of the two atomic bombs used on Japan by America in 1945 was actually a captured German weapon. The argument is that each bomb used a different method and had different designs. One can make the argument that there was not enough time or financial power for the Manhattan Project to get both types of bomb ready in the time period they existed within.

The National Socialist Germany is the perfect example of what the Aryan can accomplish when he gets free of Zionist occupation.

Of course, every White Nation should have adjusted and moderated National Socialism according to its own temperament and traditions.

The German National Socialist model is best fit to the Germanic Aryan people ; Germans, Anglo – Saxons and Scandinavians.

The Germanic people are known for their discipline, their hard work and their practical spirit.

The other branches of the White Race – Celts, Mediterraneans etc – should adjust the basic NS principles into their own mentality.

A Greek National Socialist – for example – must adjust National Socialism to the Hellenic Tradition, which is mainly atomocentric ( = very strong individuality ) .

The Greeks have always been merchants and sea travellers, and the Mediterranean climate has made it too difficult for them to discipline themselves.

That's a quick example which proves that a certain “flexibility” is needed when we try to spread the message of National Socialism into different White ethnic groups.

The key to the GOLDEN DAWN's success is this ; we have adjusted perfectly National Socialism to the special mentality and History of the Greek people.

All White Nationalists should do the same.

Well put Sir. There is no form of government that is "one size fits all." NS is the foundation of a healthy people which differing variations are built upon. Unlike modernist gibberish about governments, they should be founded from the people up, not the bankers and elite down.

How true. European people are diverse and each nation will look different from the one next to it, like it used to always be.

Canada and the US were new pan-European models and even we did wonderfully until the present time. I've often wondered, though, that, given our multi-European population, we need to go a little lighter on the Socialist side of NS and strive to go back more of the individualism that actually made these countries blossom. Or even if NS is the right model for us.

Maybe what we need here a European-centric traditionalism that emphasizes self-reliance. We used to do that, and neighbours would help neighbours all the time. In fact, it was socially expected. In other words, our self-reliant philosophy contained in the natural expectation of neighbours helping those who, of no fault of their own, were having a difficult go of things.

Just a thought.

There's quite a bit on how potential potentates should mould their Social Contract to the mores of the people and their habitats in Rousseau's work of the same name. I suspect he'd approve of what you say.

The not-so-United States, for example, would probably work far better as a half dozen or more State unions working in conjunction with one another, rather than under the single banner. The key is marrying organizational form with type.

Scandinavians are not entirely like Germans. The inclination towards individuality that you mention is also found in Nordics. I specifically remember Quisling confirmed this as well, and said this needed to be taken into consideration when applying National Socialist type of government in Scandinavian countries. In all truth and in reality I think our country would be secured with a hellbent Fascist movement determined to successfully get rid of international Jewry's talmudic plutocracy that have sent our Fatherland into the abyss. After this is done, the political pedantics can be sorted out.

Sweden have always been a rich and peaceful country full of happiness. Sweden was blessed with plenty natural resources by goddess Frey and maintained by a highly cultivated and competent Swedish people.

The only things we desperately need is hardcore antisemitism and uncompromisingly expel all the non-Swedish infiltrators.

Excellent, but remember the British were also very much ahead of the Germans in the electronics warfare department with radar technologies. The ability to produce synthetic fuels from coal I.G. Farben was in partnership with Standard Oil which developed this technology in it's laboratories was owned by the Rockefellars. The black box was an Australian invention which was developed by the British for commercial airline use.
